

Open Perspectives on Forest Green

Olivia Coran, Eric Veit, Coco Young

Du Lundi au Vendredi

3.10.17 - 4.09.17

Opening reception 3.10.17 7pm

Hi! This is the oldest park in Brooklyn. It was donated from an old farming lady.

I'm cleaning it up, you know, trying to find some green and help it grow.

So I'm getting rid of that (points at plastic bag) you know Deblasio bags with his 10-cent tax and all.

I'm from -----Texas it's a place with a really small population.

I've been here for thirty years. It's good you know.

I don't know about all this mulch, I'm making room for the green. This old polish lady came here and was just saying they put down too much mulch and so I'm making room for some flowers and some different greens to grow.

Kicks mulch around and makes a crevice

So maybe, you know, the restaurant there can have some of these vegetables.

Yeah, you see here I have a gun, this is my gun

Points to a wooden stick

If you've ever been to -----California then you'd know.

Right so I made this shrine here and created a safe ground.

You know it's about time someone takes better care of this park. It's Brooklyn's oldest park! I quite love these pine trees, I don't know how old they are but they are special.